

KING ABANDONS AIRSHIP FLIGHT

Lieutenant Calderara's Fall Revealed to Cabinet Risks Monarch Would Take.

ROME, May 16.—Lieutenant Calderara is considered almost entirely recovered from the injuries he sustained in falling from a Wright aeroplane on May 6, and is preparing for further flights.

Contemporaneously with Calderara's recovery the Wright aeroplane is having the injuries healed in a building at the Centocelle Field. The accident has deprived the King of Italy of seeing his ambition fulfilled of going down in history as the first monarch to go up in this new and wonderful invention.

King Victor had decided to wait a few days to be sure that Lieutenant Calderara had acquired complete mastery of the aeroplane and then try the emotion of rapid aerial flight. No one had objected to this desire of the sovereign—not even the Queen, who, whenever her husband, following the generous impulses of his heart, undertakes something risky, insists on accompanying him.

After the accident the question of the King's going in an aeroplane was brought before the Council of Ministers and thoroughly discussed, they coming to the decision to submit a respectful prayer to the sovereign not to jeopardize the life which is so precious to the nation.

It is privately said that this objection would probably not have been made had it been Wilbur Wright with whom His Majesty thought of going up. Partly this and partly owing to the desire of infusing fresh confidence in the King, the Council decided to let the King go, but in a large and not need it, but in the new scheme, the King is to be accompanied by a pilot, and in the event of an accident, the King is to be taken to a hospital.

BAPTISTS TAKE LOUISVILLE

Visiting Ministers Fill Nearly All Pulpits in the City.

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 16.—With nearly all the pulpits in Louisville filled by visiting ministers of prominence at both morning and evening services, and with four huge mass-meetings to engage the attention of church-goers, Sunday for those attending the Southern Baptist convention brought no slackening of the zeal which the gathering has aroused. Full churches, many of them overflowing, were the rule everywhere, and many notable sermons were preached.

Of the mass-meetings the one held at the Broadway Baptist Church as a memorial service for prominent laymen missionaries and prominent laymen who have died during the past year probably attracted the most attention.

There was a long roster of distinguished dead, and for the memory of each there was full tribute paid in the meeting. The meeting was held in the main convention hall this afternoon, largely attended, addresses delivered by the Rev. B. R. Gray, secretary of the Home Mission Board, E. W. Stephens, and Henry R. Pollard, of Richmond, being the features of a two hours session.

An afternoon meeting in the interest of the Women's Missionary Union was held at the First Presbyterian Church, an evangelistic conference at the Walnut Street Baptist Church, addressed by W. W. Hamilton, Luther Little, George W. McDaniel and Len G. Broughton brought the day's services to a close.

Miscellaneous unfinished business will be wound up at to-morrow's session of the convention and final adjournment will be taken.

TO ELIMINATE ROWDYISM.

Acting President of National League Holds Conference With Umpires.

NEW YORK, May 16.—The elimination of rowdyism on the ball field and the continuance of strict enforcement of rules throughout the season were two points which interested the acting President John Heydler, of the National League, at a conference here today with the eight umpires of this organization.

The meeting was called principally for the purpose of going over the regulations which have been adopted for a discussion of means of bringing about the best results from the double umpire system.

Confession Ceremony.

Bishop Van de Vyver left yesterday for Petersburg, from which place he drove to the Bohemian Catholic Church in Prince George county, six miles from Petersburg, to confirm thirty young girls and boys. To-day he will confirm another class at the Bohemian Church in Dinwiddie county.

Heads Go to Augusta.

ATLANTA, GA., May 16.—Manager Smith of the Atlanta Southern League team today announced the sale of John Henry, a pitcher, to the Boston Braves, to the Augusta team of the South Atlantic League.

DOCTOR OF INSANE BECOMES A VICTIM

J. H. Daugherty, Unbalanced Through Sympathetic Suggestion, Diagnoses Own Case.

ELGIN, ILL., May 16.—Dr. J. H. Daugherty, for many years a physician in the insane asylum here, has been declared insane and is a patient in the asylum in which he has long been a medical adviser. His insanity is the result of sympathetic suggestion, and he has realized for some time that he was in danger.

The official examination into Dr. Daugherty's condition was made at his own request to superintendent administrator.

Two months ago Dr. Daugherty began to act queerly. He was the first to notice it, and he immediately asked for a leave of absence. He said that he believed if he left the asylum and resumed his work in the community, he would be restored to his normal condition. The request for a vacation was granted, and Dr. Daugherty went away.

He was gone several weeks, and when he returned a few days ago he was seemingly fully recovered. Physically he was sound, and mentally he was nothing apparently the matter with him.

He was restored to his old duties, and expressed the opinion that he was fully recovered. No sooner did he resume his work in the asylum, however, than the old feeling that he was irresponsible returned to him. He tried to throw off the belief, but he had seen too many cases of insanity not to recognize the symptoms, and he decided that his long association with the insane had cost him his own mental balance.

He asked for an examination, hoping that he would be declared sane. He was only morbid. The verdict of the alienists was that he was insane. He will undergo treatment, and it is hoped that he can be restored to a normal mental state, but other physicians are averse to expressing any definite opinion as to the outcome.

GIRL DIES ALONE IN FLAT

She Is Left There Without Help for Several Days.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Emily Levy, twenty-four years old, a saleswoman in a Sixth Avenue department store, was found dead yesterday afternoon by the police in a deserted flat on the top floor of a tenement at 223 East Ninety-third Street. The flat was occupied up to last Wednesday by Amanda Kowalsky, an East Side professional nurse, who had been in the flat for several days. She was found lying on a bed, and an orange on a chair by the dying girl's bed, left the flat and did not return.

On Wednesday and early yesterday, when the girl seems to have died, she is supposed to have been without assistance or medical attendance.

CORPORATION WITH A SOUL

Car Held in Indiana for Little Mrs. Robin Redbreast.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 16.—An Indiana freight car No. 1848, though relieved of its burden and, under company rules, ready to be released, is being held on a siding in Richmond, awaiting the day that a dainty Mrs. Robin Redbreast shall have hatched out three sky-blue eggs that lie at the bottom of a nest built in a crack in the side of the car. The nest was built and the eggs were laid in New York City, the tag on the card reading "Piers 4, New York, N. Y., April 28, 1936." The car came through to Richmond laden with goods for a wholesale grocery house.

Strikers Standing Firm.

HONOLULU, May 16.—With no prospect of recognition from their employers, the 6,000 Japanese plantation hands on strike in the Hawaiian Islands are firmly standing their ground, awaiting developments.

The strike, which started a week ago, was the result of a determined demand by the Japanese laborers on the sugar estates for an increase of wages from $18 to $22.50 a month.

Secret Wedding.

PASADENA, CALIF., May 16.—Word was received today of the secret marriage last night at the Church of the Angels, in San Rafael Heights, of Barlow Dwight, son of Mrs. J. H. Dwight, formerly of Chicago, and Miss Esme Cullloch, a daughter of C. W. A. Cullloch, a Pasadena banker, a wealthy and prominent here locally.

Weds Mrs. Baker.

NEW YORK, May 16.—J. H. Honora, Jr., said to be the youngest brother of Mrs. Potter Palmer, of Chicago, and a brother-in-law of General Frederick D. Grant, was married here on Wednesday afternoon to Mrs. Harriette Baker, a New York woman, according to news which became current to-day.

SCORES PITTSBURG SOCIETY

John Reed Scott Tells Things in "The Woman in Question."

PITTSBURG, PA., May 16.—Under the title of "The Woman in Question," John Reed Scott, of Gettysburg, Pa., formerly of the law firm of Childs & Scott, of Pittsburgh, attacks Pittsburgh society, and especially that of the city.

GOING AFTER THE FLOATING EGG.

Councilman Declares He Intends Investigate Product Served in Boarding-House.

Having run the gamut of investigations, and being duly impressed with the good they bring forth, a member of the Common Council declared yesterday that he would introduce an ordinance at the next meeting to look into the quality of eggs being served the people of Richmond. "We have investigated water and milk," he said, "and why not turn the searchlight on the product that comes in shell? Think of the good that might be accomplished."

So far as anybody can ascertain no complaint has been made about the quality of eggs served here. True, they are bought in bulk, and a man cannot tell whether a watermelon is good until the knife has cut through its heart, the same being true of the cantaloupe, which is just about the king of all garden sports. But the Councilman is determined to seek light, though he will eliminate that part of the resolution which provides an appropriation of $50 for the employment of a stenographer.

Impairance of this investigation appeared to meet the Councilman's mind last night, "When I found an English paper which gave an idea as to how eggs can be tested. There is no expense. You take this little diagram I have, then fill a large beer glass with water and gently drop the egg in. See by the picture whether it is ripe or overripe. As an egg grows older the water contained in the white part evaporates, and this causes the empty space at the thick end to become enlarged. The larger the empty space becomes the more the egg will rise in the water, until in the course of time it floats. Now, what I am going to do is to have the Council and the floating egg.

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

drop the egg in. See by the picture whether it is ripe or overripe. As an egg grows older the water contained in the white part evaporates, and this causes the empty space at the thick end to become enlarged. The larger the empty space becomes the more the egg will rise in the water, until in the course of time it floats. Now, what I am going to do is to have the Council and the floating egg.

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand.

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity. Try this egg test on your boarding-house-keeper, and if he doesn't flinch, then tell her to scramble them."

"The fresh ones will rest on the bottom of the glass, and at three weeks (shades of Elmer Glyn) they will turn to the side and cuddle up like a cat, and when they are three months old they will stand up on the little end at the bottom of the glass just as if they were held there by the human hand."

"As they become more ancient they will rise higher, until the shell reaches out above the surface of the water."

"But even if my colleagues will not help me get through this fine little measure, you can use my information for the benefit of the man who boards. Of course, if he insists on testing the eggs before he sends them to the cook, he may be asked to take his little telescope out of the hall room and seek another home, but one man driven away may be instrumental in demanding real fresh eggs for the other members of his household."

This investigation will cost nothing. An investigation by Council will cost nothing. It will not hurt the reputation of anybody, but it will bless the way for improved health, good digestion, even tempers and less profanity.